

A qualified and passionate teacher of English

[] Tutoring and education courses

Hello, I'm a qualified English teacher (a university degree) with 10 years of experience. If you're looking for someone who: - can teach all levels and all ages (I specialise in teaching adults - General and Business English; I can also help your child with his/her homework) - speaks RP English (the standard British English accent) - has a passion for teaching and an engaging personality - is patient and flexible (I use various motivational techniques to help my students reach the best results; I adjust to individual needs and learning styles) - gives off a good vibe and ensures a friendly and relaxed atmosphere - uses the communicative and eclectic approach (we use only English in the lesson which accelerates the learning process and focus mostly on speaking skills [I love working with students who are also willing to work on their own - together we can achieve anything - the sky's the limit!]) You should definitely get in touch with me and try a free lesson. To schedule it or to simply find out more about my methods, please give me a call or send an email.
